Young Kim Joins Terrie O'Connor Realtors

Young has been a resident of Bergen County since 1985, when he and his family moved to the United States from Seoul, South Korea. He owned his own business manufacturing high-tech welding helmets for many years. He is now turning his extensive sales and marketing experience to real estate.

Young graduated from Seoul National University and worked for both the Seoul and Manhattan branches of SK Corporation. Before starting his own business, he was responsible for spearheading long-term relationships between Korean manufacturers and major US sports equipment and accessories manufacturers such as Oakley, Spy, Bolle, etc.

His success can be attributed to a highly focused, results-oriented character and outgoing personality.

Young was a longtime resident of Paramus and currently lives in River Vale with his wife, Jenny. They have two adult children and two grandchildren. He is an avid golfer and involved member of Bergen County's extensive Korean-American community.
